It all started with poetry...

Dulce et Decorum est. To Jessie Pape rete. To a celair Poeters Bent double, like dd beggars under sacks, Knock-kneed, coughing like hage, we cursed through studge, Till on the clausing flares we turned our backs. And towards our distant rest began to trudge. Dead slow we moved. Hany has bot their boots, But limped on, blood-shod. all went lame; all blind; Drunk with Jatique; deaf even to the hoots of disappointed shells that dropped behind. of tired-voices five-nines that dropped behind. Then somewhere near in front: Whew ... fup ... fop ... fup ... Gas-shells or duds? We loosened masks, in case -And listened... Nothing... Far rumouring of Krupp:...
Then smartly, poison hit us in the face. Gas! GAS! - an ecstary of fumbling, ? Fitting the clumsy belinets just in time. But someone still was yelling out, and stumbling, And floundering like a man in fire or lime .-Dim, through the misty panes and thick green light, As under a dark sea, I saw him drowning.

the blunges at me, gargling, choking,

From his naval records I know he served to Photograph taken at Royal Naval Ordnace Depot, Bull Point, St Budeaux on the Plymouth side of the Tamar River immediately opposite Saltash. I can only assume he and his fellow Stokers have been attending a course within the building behind that carries the Vocat(ional) Train(ing) sign.
